Puppy Trax by Suzanne Kinman

Gala climbed out of the motor home for a quick workout before the short trip to her very first National. The year was 1985. The St. Louis Arches were across from the motor home court where everyone was staying for the big event. There was pavement everywhere! Entered in the puppy class, she had never really been handled by anyone but mom, Grandma Mary, and Aunt Andrea. Now she was meeting a handler for the very first time. Barry took the lead and told mom to go hide. Gala said hello to the stranger holding her lead and noticed all the folks standing in a group to watch. Wow, Gala'd played this game with mom lots of times. She promptly put her nose to the pavement and tracked mom to her hiding place across the blacktop. She didn't understand why Grandma was screaming and the others were laughing. She just did her job and found mom!! Of course, Mary didn't know that "no obedience" didn't mean no tracking!

Several members of the club are involved in tracking. In fact two members of the GSDC of Atlanta, Harry Fewox and Diane Castle, have titled six-month-old puppies. It is a relatively inexpensive sport that is great fun if you enjoy the out doors and working with your dog! Teaching tracking as an exercise is fun in adult dogs but absolutely amazing in young pups. Puppies can begin tracking as young as 6 weeks old. Having had no "advanced" training and little time in public, little guys have no idea that they are not allowed to sniff stuff! Lets take that nose and teach puppy to track! The important concept here is not that we are teaching puppy to use his nose, but allowing puppy to do a natural behavior, reward him for it, and learn to read the dog.

Before you begin training ask yourself a few questions. Why are you training pup? Are you looking for a new, fun game to develop puppy's mind? Are you working toward a title - Tracking Dog, Tracking Dog Excellent, or Variable Surface Tracker? Interested in Schutzhund? Are you looking to have a dog that eventually can find lost kids? The answers to these questions will direct you toward different search articles and starting methods later [starting an individual track] so begin to answer those questions as you get started.

Equipment needed to begin tracking is relatively inexpensive. First, you'll need something to attach to the pup! With a puppy you don't really even need a harness. Some folks start on a

Mick is about 10 months old, medium size, crate trained and housebroken. He's good with female dogs, has had some obedience and is now getting back into it.

Mick loves kids, but can be rough if allowed. He steals whatever he can (socks, shoes, remote control, bottle of shampoo, toilet paper, etc.) but doesn't necessarily destroy it — if you catch him in time.

Mick is learning to play ball, but would rather chase after the other dogs in the yard. Mick is being fostered by Janet Barwick. Contact her at 770-247-8396. •

Meetings of the GSDC of Atlanta are held at 8:00 p.m. the second Monday of each month (except July & December) at the Atlanta Human Society, 981 Howell Mill Road, Atlanta, GA. The December meeting will be held Monday, March 14. The GSDC of Atlanta encourages visitors to attend Club meetings.

Board Meeting Information – Board meetings are held at the home of one of the Board Members and are open to all Club members (members must notify the host Board Member before attending). Club members are not permitted to participate in discussions (unless delivering a committee report) or to vote.

Is Your Dog a Senior Citizen?

The conventional wisdom says one canine year is equivalent to seven human years. But a more accurate representation depends on both age and size to classify your dog as young, adult, senior or geriatric. The figures down the left side of the chart are the actual age of the dog. The figures across the top of the chart are the weight bracket for the dog. The figures inside the chart are the equivalent age of the dog. Equivalent ages in green are classified as "adult." Equivalent ages in yellow are "senior," and equivalent ages in red are "geriatric." Example: a ten-year old dog that weighs 40 pounds has an equivalent age of 60 years.

Age	0 - 20	21 - 50	51 - 90	Over 90
5	36	38	40	42
6	40	42	45	49
7	44	47	50	56
8	48	51	55	64
9	52	56	61	71
10	56	60	66	78

On the Trail with Your Canine Companion

by Cheryl S. Smith

This book may be of little relative interest to those who backpack for many miles and multiple days. But that's not the audience for whom the book was written. This is meant to help those dog owners who consider it daring to sleep in a pull-behind pop-up camper and walk a couple of miles on a trail through the woods understand how to include their dogs on these trips. If you would like to share a low-tech low-risk camping experience with your dog, this book will help you do that.

From suggestions on conditioning to tips on what to bring, this book tells you what you need to know to prepare yourself, and your dog, for hiking and backpacking together. The book also includes helpful first-aid information

It is clear that Smith loves her dogs and enjoys taking them on outdoor trips, but she also makes it clear that there are others on the trail who may not take kindly to dogs. Smith offers ways to ensure that you and your dogs are courteous trail users who don't detract from the wilderness experience for other travelers. The author includes some of her own experiences, which makes for a better read and also shows the reader real-life situations. • buckle collar. However, if you are serious you can use the harness to build an association with the job - the harness goes on and the pup will quickly learn to associate it with using that nose. You'll need a lead line of some type. You can begin with a six foot lead but eventually you'll want to move to a ten foot line or a twenty foot line depending on the type of tracking you're doing and the terrain. Lines come in cotton, leather, and man made materials but can also be made with a simple piece of clothesline or parachute cord and a snap. You'll need some type of indicators - a few bike or surveyor's flags can be purchased at any hardware store or general use superstore. You can also use the old wooden clothespins and tie on a piece of reflective plastic tape so they are easy to spot. Articles are high on the list. Articles can be as simple as brown cloth garden gloves used at most AKC tracks if you are only going for a TD, to a variety of "stuff" that can be picked up at any flea market or used clothing store. Knit caps, old wallets, small leather squares, small stuffed animals, etc make great articles if you intend to work advanced tracking. Variable surface tracks can include articles like gum wrappers, candy wrappers, pop-tops from cans, head or wristbands, etc. Keep articles small enough to fit inside a belt bag. You'll eventually need a large belt bag to hold treats and articles as the pup finds them and a water bottle for use on long tracks. Last, but never least, you'll need lots of food/treats.

There is one other piece of equipment that is not used by everyone but comes in handy when tracking with puppies. It is called a "blind." Blinds can be made of plastic or any other substance you want to use. I prefer wood. The blind looks like a piece of an Open broad jump - about twelve inches wide, 6 to 8 inches deep, and goes from ground level to about 6 inches tall. It can be made by taking a block of wood 1 inch thick, 6 by 6 (or 8 by 8) inch square and cutting it diagonally. You will end up with two triangular blocks of wood that are 6 to 8 inches long by 1 inch wide. They are 0 inches high on one end and 6 (or 8) inches high on the other. Take a piece of cheap paneling 12 inches wide by 6 (or 8) inches long and nail it to the two “legs.” What you will have is something that looks like a tiny bike or car ramp. When this is placed on the ground and covered with pine straw or grass you have a very effective blind behind/under which you can hide treats, articles, or entire puppy food pots and from ground level cannot be seen!

Ready? Set? TRACK!
Laying that first track can be daunting. It involves a great deal of skill, timing, and knowledge. NOT! Grab puppy’s dinner (pot and all) and either a glove or washcloth and go to your tracking area. Put the washcloth or glove inside your shirt. Your first tracking area can be as small as four feet wide by fifteen feet long but should always be grass to start out. Take your “flag” and stick it in the ground. Beside it, scuff your feet in the grass in a patch about two feet square to stir up scent. Place a handful of pup’s dinner inside that square. Scuffing your feet, walk forward and every six inches or so, place a couple of kibbles of food. Continue forward until you get to the end of your tracking area. Put down your blind, hide the food pot behind it covered by a brown cloth glove or old washcloth, and continue to walk ahead for a few feet before making a HUGE circle back to your door.

Bring puppy out to about ten feet BEFORE the flag. Place the tracking harness or collar on pup, attach the line and give him a bite of food. Next, walk puppy up to the flag and give a cue (command) to track – lots of folks use “find it”, “go find”, “track”, etc. Just pick a word and be consistent. Let puppy sniff around until he finds the pile of kibble and eats it. Be patient and wait. Let puppy find the next kibble that should only be about 6 inches away. The next, next, next, etc. When he gets to the end puppy earns the “jackpot” of dinner behind the blind. First he’ll have to move the article – glove or washcloth then let him eat. Puppy just ran his first track.

Do this for at least one week before changing anything. Puppy is learning to use that nose to find his dinner and to follow scent. At this point he is following food scent. He is also learning to associate the article with food. Later, over a VERY short time, you can begin to lengthen the distance between kibbles and the length of the track. Make sure to just work long straight lines at this point. As you lengthen the distance between kibbles puppy will begin to follow your scent to the next kibble. Now he’s really tracking. Before you add your first turn lengthen the time between laying the track and the time the puppy actually runs it. This is called “aging” the track. Within two weeks puppy should be able to run a 30-minute-old track with no problem.

Next month we’ll talk about adding turns, indicating articles, and the various ways to start the track. In the interim books of interest are Glen Johnson’s Tracking Dog theory and methods, and Ed Presnall’s Mastering Variable Surface Tracking.

Until next month, keep the Faith and GO FIND. •

Laying that first track can be daunting. It involves a great deal of skill, timing, and knowledge... NOT!

According to the AKC...

The first impression of a good German Shepherd Dog is that of a strong, agile, well muscled animal, alert and full of life.

It is well balanced, with harmonious development of the forequarter and hindquarter. The dog is longer than tall, deep-bodied, and presents an outline of smooth curves rather than angles. It looks substantial and not spindly, giving the impression, both at rest and in motion, of muscular fitness and nimbleness without any look of clumsiness or soft living.

AKC Delegate

Carmen Battaglia requested that his report be posted on the GSDCA website. Some points from his report are summarized here.

The "In ring Temperament Test" is being supported by the judges and the AKC judges department. The AKC Board amended the Rally Regulations, effective January 1, 2005 to make it clear that a Rally Trial held with an Obedience Trial must be open to the same breeds as that Obedience Trial, e.g. All Breed, Group or a single breed.

The AKC Board approved an outright grant to the AKC Canine Health Foundation endowment for an amount up to $500,000 in additional funds for the Foundation endowment to be given as a dollar-for-dollar match for any new donations the Canine Health Foundation raises for the endowment from other sources through the end of 2005.

Europe Pet Microchipping

Europe and all of its trading partners have now mandated microchipping as a condition of positive identification. This rule applies to pets being shipped in and out of the EU. Switzerland's Federal Council has taken this even further. The Swiss introduced compulsory microchipping for all dogs. Their goal is to have all dogs clearly marked by 2007.

DNA Consultant

Dr. Elaine A. Ostrander, is the foremost scientist on the genome. She has agreed to serve as a consultant to AKC's DNA department. With her involvement in the sequencing of the canine genome and its completion, she is the ideal person to help AKC fashion its DNA programs going forward. See the website for detailed information.

National Specialty 2005

The 2005 National Specialty will be held in Concord, North Carolina on October 31 - November 1, 2005. An Advanced Brochure will be mailed to members in May. Be sure to bring it with you to the 2005 Nationals as it will have information that will not be in the premium list. The show committee and committee chairman were presented and approved by the January Board. Dog friendly hotels have been secured for North Carolina. Royal Canin USA and Nestle Purina Pet Care Company continue to sponsor our National. The facility for our North Carolina National show in Cabarrus County is new and outstanding.

Obedience Report

Anyone wishing to serve on the 2005 Obedience Committee should contact Dalene McIntire at 253-852-0605 or dalene.mcintire@verizon.com. Rally levels one, two, and three will be offered at the 2005 National.

The 2005 Herding Trial dates are Oct. 28, 29, and 30 (Friday, Saturday, and Sunday) at Fran Hoffman's

Glenn-Haven Farms located in Durham, NC. Two days of the trials will be open to all breeds. The GSDCA would like to offer a "C" course whenever possible, but a minimum of at least 6 commitments to enter are required because of the special requirements and logistics involved in putting on this course. Courses A, B, and a limited number of tests plus the non-regular Ranch Course will be offered. Judges elected by the membership are; Ann White, Debbie Pollard, and Laura Noll. Trial Secretary is Linda Copestick. Herding Instinct Test TBA

Futurity: Cappy Pottle was approved as the alternate judge for the 2005 Mid-Atlantic Futurity. Kathaleen Strong was approved as the co-chair of the 2005 North West Futurity. There was a clarification to the Judge's Agreement that it should state: I am a member in good standing of the GSDCA and am in good standing with the AKC. It was also approved that those persons having completed the new judge's requirements prior to January 2005 be grandfathered with documentation showing they have done the event but without the required signature of the chairman. Any matches or stewarding assignments completed after January 2005 would require the necessary signature.

Hero Dog Award

Deadline for submission of nominations is June 1, 2005. If your nomination did not win in 2004, you may resubmit the following year. No GSDCA Board member, or relative, may compete. Knowledge of, and agreement to nomination, by the owner of the dog must accompany the application.

ROM titles

Dogs may enter the Nationals of the same year once the ROM is confirmed by the chairman.

AABOI

This is the former ADOA committee is now Advocacy for Animal Breeders and Owners Issues By directly working with the regional clubs it will be easier to disseminate notification and issues in advance. Regional Clubs may expect to be contacted regarding these issues.

Health and Genetics

Dr. Clemmons is nearly ready to demonstrate the use of the MRI as a diagnostic tool for DM. He has developed a new DNA based method for diagnosis. Owners can now send blood samples to Dr. Clemmons. The test is reported as positive or negative for DM in those dogs who are symptomatic. More information about this test and how to send a sample can be found on the website. <http://neuro.vetmed.ufl.edu/DM-Flash-test.htm> Dr. Clemmons plans to begin bone marrow stem cell research this year. The GSDCA has donated $10,000 to Dr. Clemmons DM research and has asked the Foundation to contribute another $5000.

Bill asks the regional clubs to keep John Ayotte at showdates@gsdca.org or at john@jmadesign.com (John Ayotte) aware of your clubs show schedule. John has worked hard to make the "Show calendar" a very user friendly, searchable facility to plan shows for your dogs and your pleasure. Also please encourage your local clubs to provide us with their marked show catalogues via email at showresults@gsdca.org. Keep club information current by sending changes to Bill. He plans to make this a focus area in 2005 and needs a few good assistant web masters in this area. Contact

Bill if you wish to volunteer.

Junior Program

The Junior Newsletter was mailed September 2004. Any junior not receiving a newsletter please contact Susan Godek. Ashley Miller of Gumby, TX was the Robert Hamilton Trophy winner for 2004. Ashley Miller also won the $100.00 Savings bond for the highest GPA. Meghan McDonald won Best Junior at the 2004 Nationals in Albany, OR. AKC rule change: The following changes to the Junior Showmanship Regulations will be effective January 1, 2005.

Minimum age of participation will be 9.

Classes will be divided into 3 age groups: Juniors 9-11, Intermediate 12-14, and Senior 15-18 Competition will be required for the Best Junior award.

These changes will allow juniors closer in age to compete against each other, as well as for more opportunities for success. A $200.00 Savings Bond would be given in place of the Robert Hamilton Trophy to any junior who is a repeat winner of the year long Junior Showmanship competition. Wins are based on fiscal year - July 1 to June 30. Points must be submitted to Susan Godek, GSDCA, Junior Program Chairperson.

Membership

Gail Hardcastle and Dania Karloff continue to work in partnership to meet the needs of the membership committee. A distribution of the membership handbook was approved by the Board. As was done last year, this booklet will contain informative articles and should serve as a primary resource of GSDCA information for all GSDCA members. This handbook is scheduled for distribution in the fall. They are planning a variety of programs this year to not only reach out and gain new members but also to increase our rate of membership retention. Among these programs will be: (1) a follow up on members who did not renew this year, (2) referral of new members to regional clubs: and (3) recognition of long term members.

Parent Club Office

Regional Clubs are asked to note that, effective immediately, the new email for Parent Club Office requests will be lazerwolffe@ekit.com. The address for mailing premium lists to request medallions remains the same: Linda Newman, PO Box 1656, Allen, TX 75013.

Products Committee

The GSDCA would like to thank those who supported our products from the internet shopping cart and at our National Specialty. There are a few windbreaker jackets remaining in inventory, so please contact Gary Szymczak at pagairs@aol.com for colors and sizes.

Regional Club

GSDCA Regional Club Challenge Program for 2005 to be from August 1, 2004 through July 31, 2005. Deadline for all clubs to submit their forms and supporting documentation for points earned will be August 31, 2005. Send hard copy information only (Data will not be accepted via email) to:

Kelly Knight, 2071 Midlothian Road, Roseville, MN 55113, Phone: 651-633-3652 (just in case) , Email:

Hadderway@msn.com (For questions only) Complete Guidelines and Forms for the Regional Club Challenge Program are on the GSDCA Website, www.gsdca.org <<http://www.gsdca.org>> or send an email to Lew Bunch at Lewieb@aol.com or call him 816 941 8725 and one will be sent to you.

GSDCA Regional Club Website Contest

This is to be a yearly competition of the GSDCA Regional Clubs websites. The purpose of club websites should be as a communication vehicle for members including upcoming meeting and event information, fun photos and information for members, identification of officers and to promote ease of communication with the club. The website should also be user friendly to members and the general public which may be looking for information on the breed and the Regional Club and the Parent Club. The website should be educational as

What does a temperament test measure?

One test, administered by The American Temperament Test Society, Inc., focuses on and measures different aspects of temperament such as stability, shyness, aggressiveness, and friendliness as well as the dog's instinct for protectiveness towards its handler and/or self-preservation in the face of a threat.

How is the ATTS temperament test designed?

The test simulates a walk through the park or neighborhood where everyday situations are encountered. During this walk, the dog experiences visual, auditory and tactile stimuli. Neutral, friendly and threatening situations, call into play the dog's ability to distinguish between non-threatening situations and those calling for watchful and protective reactions.
